Shop the Personal Treasures of the Founder of 1stdibs

by LIZ LYNCH

As the founder of vintage and antique shopping site 1stdibs, Michael Bruno is obviously a passionate collector of stylish pieces and unique treasures—just check out his gorgeous Hamptons kitchen above. But after years of global travel and constant shopping, Bruno's collection has exceeded his square footage so the tastemaker is teaming up with One Kings Lane to launch a tag sale of over 300 one-of-a-kind pieces of furniture, lighting, paintings, and decorative objects.

Notable pieces include a pair of 17th century Dutch mahogany pillow cabinets, a set of pinball machines from the '70s, antique gymnastic equipment, and gigantic fossilized whale bones. The sale launched today and runs through June 10, but don't be shy, we have a feeling these items won't last long.

Take a peek into his New York home here then shop a few of our favorite pieces from the sale below and head over to One Kings Lane to see the entire collection!
